SA!DA! (Sing Along, Dance Along) are collections of folk songs and children's songs from around the world.

Hippo Goes Overseas (HGO) is the (true!) story of a Japanese girl's homestay on an American farm. In the "Transnational Edition," the language changes with the scene, stimulating both ear and brain.

Kabajin I-IV are four stories about the adventures of a Hippo boy. Unless otherwise noted, the story is given phrase by phrase in two languages, with two language pairs per CD.

Anyone Can Speak 7 Languages is a collection of essays on language acquisition, which originally appeared in a major Japanese newspaper. This material has more sophisticated vocabulary and concepts.
